PHẦN 7A. READING COMPREHENSION 1 • Questions 87–93

Reading 1: Community helpers

Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the following questions from 87 to 93.

Every neighbourhood needs people who keep it safe, clean and comfortable. These community helpers do different jobs, but they all serve the people around them.

Garbage collectors start work very early. They go from street to street, take away rubbish and help keep the environment healthy. Without them, the neighbourhood would quickly become dirty and full of disease. Electricians repair broken lights and dangerous electrical wires so that families can live safely at home. When a fire starts, firefighters arrive as fast as they can. They put out the fire and rescue people from burning buildings. Police officers patrol the streets, especially at night, and remind residents to obey the law.

Delivery persons have become more important in modern communities. They bring food, medicine and parcels to people's doors, which is useful for the elderly. Many helpers also instruct children about road safety and recycling at the community centre.

Living in a strong community means showing respect for these workers. A simple 'thank you' or a cup of tea on a hot day can make their hard work feel valued.

87. What is the passage mainly about?

PHẦN 7B. READING COMPREHENSION 2 • Questions 94–100

Reading 2: Life in a craft village

Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the following questions from 94 to 100.

Lan grew up in a small craft village about twenty kilometres from Ha Noi's city centre. Almost every family there works with clay. In the morning, the air is full of the fragrance of wet earth and wood smoke from the kilns. Lan's grandfather is a well-known artisan. He still uses original tools and refuses to make cheap copies for tourists. 'A good bowl must last for years,' he often says.

When Lan was little, she did not know what to do with her free time. Then her grandfather showed her how to sit at the pottery wheel. At first the clay flew everywhere. Slowly she learnt where to place her hands and when to add water. Now she can make simple cups. The family hope she will preserve the craft and that the skill will be handed down once more.

At weekends, visitors come to look around the workshops. They buy souvenirs and speciality snacks sold along the river. The village has become a tourist attraction, which brings money but also rubbish. Lan's community has decided to cut down on plastic bags and to take care of the riverbank. 'If we do not protect our neighbourhood,' Lan says, 'people will not want to come back.'

94. Where did Lan grow up?

- A. In a shopping mall in the city centre
- B. In a craft village not far from Ha Noi
- C. In a suburb of Ho Chi Minh City
- D. On a floating market in the Mekong

95. What is Lan's grandfather like as an artisan?

- A. He only makes cheap copies for tourists.
- B. He has stopped working with clay.
- C. He values quality and uses original tools.
- D. He wants to move to the city centre.

96. The word 'kilns' in paragraph 1 is closest in meaning to _____.

- A. ovens used for baking pottery
- B. buses used for tourists
- C. bags used for rubbish
- D. tools used by electricians

97. How did Lan learn to make pottery?

- A. She watched videos in a shopping mall.
- B. A delivery person taught her at the weekend.
- C. Her grandfather instructed her at the pottery wheel.
- D. She found out by reading a city museum guide.

98. What problem has tourism brought to the village?

- A. There are no more visitors at weekends.
- B. The village has more rubbish to deal with.
- C. Artisans have run out of clay completely.
- D. Children are not allowed to make cups.

99. The phrase 'handed down' in paragraph 2 is closest in meaning to _____.

- A. thrown away
- B. looked for
- C. passed to the next generation
- D. cut down on

100. What does Lan believe about protecting the neighbourhood?

- A. It is unnecessary if the village is famous.
- B. Only the police officer should do it.
- C. It helps visitors want to return.
- D. It will stop all tourists from coming.
